New Coin Dealer Association

A few weeks ago we wrote about a new breed (coin dealers) that have sprung up since the advent of the various teletype systems. Many of the legitimate dealers have been considering the problems that have arisen for quite some time, but have not taken any serious action to correct the ills that exist in the industry because of the speed at which things have been happening since the inauguration of the first national teletype network to serve coin dealers less than two years ago.

There has been in existence a dealers organization composed wholly of dealers who lease teletype service from the American Numismatic Exchange of Houston. This dealers association is called the American Numismatic Exchange Dealers Association (ANEDA), but the only qualifications for membership in the association are that you be a lessee of an ANE network machine. This of course presented many problems and the directors of ANEDA do not feel that they can accomplish what needs to be accomplished under the present set up.

Realizing these problems approximately 40 reputable dealers who represent a cross section of the legitimate coin dealers through out the country met at the Sherman House Hotel in Chicago, Illinois on October 13, 1964, 7:30 P.M. to discuss the problems of the industry and see what could be done to correct them. In addition to the dealers at this meeting, there were also representatives of the three major teletype networks, American Numismatic Exchange, United States Coin Exchange, and Professional Coin Dealers Exchange. In effect they helped create the "monster" and they wanted to help "tame" it in cooperation with the dealers at the meeting.

Mr. Lou Irwin, who is instrumental in arranging the meeting in Chicago, was appointed temporary chairman of the meeting so that everyone present would have a chance to get his ideas of what had to be done and how to do it to everyone else present. After about three hours of discussion on various matters pertaining to the coin industry as a whole as well as the teletype coin dealers,

On this page we have a report by one of our feature columnists, Elliot Cashdan, regarding a new coin dealer association called National Association of Coin Dealers, Inc. It is the feeling of Space City Publications that an organization of this type has been a long time coming for the coin market. There has been no organization which could, in our opinion, take effective action to control the ethics and business practices of the coin industry. We believe that this organization can become as strong as the NASDA is to the stock market. We believe the reputable coin dealers should check into this organization for themselves and if they are qualified we feel that they should join this body which will be the most beneficial organization in the coin business today. We realize that there will be some who will say "This organization is the tool of the few dealers to gain power." We do not believe this to be the case and we feel that coin dealers must put aside their minor differences and petty jealousies to form a strong group such as NACD Inc.

it was felt by the group that a new organization was needed to fill the void that existed at the present time. A special organizational meeting was called at 10:30 P.M. by acting chairman, Lou Irwin at the same location on the Tuesday evening. Mr. Harold Berk was appointed acting secretary to make a transcript of all that transpired. 21 members of the original 40 stayed for the organizational meeting, the results of which were to be explained at another meeting at 9:00 A.M. Wednesday morning, October 14, to those who did not attend.

At the organizational meeting, time was spent in the formation of temporary set of rules and regulations to govern this body. In as much as there was a majority of those who had attended the 7:30 meeting in attendance, it was decided that this group would act for the body. At 2:00 A.M. October 14, 1964 the following board of directors were elected. Phil Lampkin of Washington, D. C. Chairman, Dan Messer of New York City, Joe Welles of Topeka, Kansas, Blaise Dantone of Atlanta, Georgia, and Joe Flynn, Sr. of Kansas City, Kansas. Immediately following the election of the board of directors a recess was called so the board could meet privately and elect officers. The following officers were elected by the board who then re-opened the meeting. President Dave Shapiro of Chicago, Vice President Jonah Shapiro of Syracuse, New York, Secretary Harold Berke of Warren, Ohio, Assistant Secretary Elliot J. Cashdan of Ft. Worth, Texas, Treasurer E. Strauss of Chicago, Illinois, Assistant Treasurer Bill Foster of Denver, Colorado.

Being that Dave Shapiro was not present to accept the presidency it was decided that Joe Welles would conduct the meeting scheduled for 9:00 A.M. October 14 if Mr. Shapiro could not confirm his appointment by then. Mr. Lampkin then conducted the meeting as Chairman. He announced that the board of directors had chosen Mr. Herman Pressman, who is an attorney and numismatist, to temporarily act as executive director for this organization. This of course would be a salaried position but Mr. Pressman offered to act temporarily in this position at no salary just expenses until the next special meeting which will be held in Kansas City, Kansas over the Thanksgiving weekend next month.

It was decided that application for membership in the organization would be accepted from all legitimate coin dealers who wish to tender their application. The initiation fee was set at $100 and monthly dues of $15 were set up. To save time we will mention that at the Wednesday morning meeting the charter members who were present at the organizational meeting agreed to pay the entire first years dues in advance to give the treasury of the new organization a healthy balance to work with immediately.

It was decided that all directors and officers remain in office for one fiscal year, the date and place to coincide with the ANA annual convention at which time a meeting will be held to elect new directors who will in turn elect the officers. Being that the organizers were dragging the meeting was unanimously adjourned at 4:45 A.M.

Pegged Gold Price At What Cost?

Crucial Problem For Next Administration

By Christian F. Verbeke

AS the 88th Congress adjourns, one is struck by the exceptional legislative activity in the domains of money and currency during this session. Activity which did not always result in legislation perhaps, but at any rate is indicative of the hard work put in by many members of both Houses.

Perpetual '64 coinage, 45 million new silver dollars, are but a few of the numerous measures passed. Redefinition of silver content in U. S. coinage, the price of silver, and all facets of the National coin shortage are bound to generate renewed activity after November.

The silver question is undoubtedly the item of highest priority for the forthcoming Congress as the silver crisis has moved into high gear and is reaching critical proportions. The crisis can still be solved without major international repercussions, hence the dire need for immediate action.

Somewhat in the background, although explosive from an international standpoint, is the gold question. A temporary reprieve in the outflow of U. S. gold has eased somewhat the pressures on this metal. This illusionary tranquility has been most conducive to the prevalent apathy with regards to the gold question.

All this much to the dismay of Senator Ernest Gruening of Alaska and the domestic gold mining industry suffering from perpetual and induced anemia. Induced indeed because of inflexible legislation passed some thirty years ago and aggravated by subsequent international monetary arrangements reminiscent of or extensions from the Bretton-Woods agreements.

Reviewing the history of gold mining before the American Mining Congress on September 16, Senator Gruening reminisced nostalgically: "The valiant gold prospectors of the last century whose enterprise in exploring the West was truly phenomenal were stalwart men of courage, fortitude and persistent determination to find the precious metal and bring it forth for the world to use. They sought their individual fortunes in the wilderness of California, in the mountains of Colorado, in the remote Klondike, in Alaska, on the beaches of Nome, in the upper reaches of Yukon near where Fairbanks would be born and in southeastern Alaska where they brought the city of Juneau, now the State's capital, into existence. In all the western domain of the United States, in Idaho, Montana, Wyoming, South Dakota, Utah, Arizona, Nevada, Alaska — wherever the chance of lucky strike appeared — the intrepid prospector was on the scene. More times than will ever be known the search ended in heartbreak, despair and tragedy. The success that came to those who located rich sources of gold brought with it the establishment of communities which sometimes became great cities and sometimes became ghost towns. The mining communities provided places of settlement not otherwise begun, and with their establishment came the people who played their historic role in the drama of the history of the American West—one of the great epics of all times.

"The prospectors of that earlier day were constantly beset by the perils of an unexplored wilderness where the climate was often hostile as in the Klondike; or where there was negligible protection against the danger of assault by hostile Indians or wild animals."

Regarding his experiences in Washington to arouse sympathy or generate relief action for the gold miners, Senator Gruening bitterly stated: "Prospecting for gold in the Halls of Congress, in hostile territory of the executive department and its closed doors — closed to reason — and even in the Federal courts may not present the same physical hardships and dangers that were the lot of the 19th century prospectors in the field. However, the manmade frustrations may be no less.

"The prospecting for gold that takes place in Washington takes the form of an endless, difficult and, so far, disappointing search for action by the Federal Government that will allow gold miners once again to produce gold profitably and thereby make their rightful contribution to the economic welfare of the Nation."

Senator Gruening seriously criticized the assistance to foreign mining and cited the following examples: "As mentioned earlier, we have spent enormous amounts of money developing mining industries in uncounted countries across the globe. For example, we have spent nearly $7 million developing coal and other forms of mining in Korea since 1956.

"The Government of the Philippines, which is, as you know, a large producer of gold, has received over one-half million dollars for minerals surveys during the same period of time.

"As for Afghanistan, we have contributed $875,000 in assistance to its mining industry. The other countries to which we have distributed our largesse under the foreign aid program to aid mining industries are India, Turkey, Brazil, China, Yugoslavia, and Indonesia, whose charming ruler has said 'to hell with your aid' and is now using the military material we have given them to make war on Malaysia, a new-born country oriented toward the West and freedom."

Senator Gruening then proceeded to describe the gold mining's status in the following terms: "If, indeed, the mining industry is the stepchild of the Federal Government, gold mining may be described as an orphan, with Uncle Sam showing no interest in adoption.

"The dismal record of the treatment of gold mining by the executive branch of the Federal Government, through both Democratic and Republican administrations, could make one believe there is something approaching a bipartisan policy of expropriation of the industry. Perhaps we need some kind of domestic equivalent of the Hickenlooper amendment that penalizes expropriation of American enterprises abroad among the recipients of foreign aid by suspending of such aid. Where there has not been at home, at worst, positive hostility toward the gold mining industry, there has been, at the best, an attitude of complete indifference and the view that nothing can be done, anyway, so 'don't bother us again with the gold miners.'"

"Let me say, parenthetically, that it is something of an enjoyable experience to be making a strictly nonpartisan speech while a nationwide political campaign is in full blast — something not easy for me to do. As far as gold mining is concerned, I can say of both Democrats and Republicans, 'a plague on both your parties.' Conversely, it is refreshing to record that all our gold legislative efforts have had bipartisan sponsorship in the Congress.

"Everyone here knows the history of the last 30 years and the actions which have produced the now sad plight of the gold mining industry. We recall the 1934 order, just three decades ago, of President Roosevelt establishing the price of gold at $35 an ounce — an increase from $20.67 an ounce — an act that, whatever its influence on our monetary system, and its immediate benefits to gold mining which were considerable and were gratefully received by the industry and the individual gold miners, resulted at the hands of succeeding administrations in fixing of the price of gold at an inflexible, arbitrary limit which has now acquired a peculiar and wholly illogical mystique."

According to Senator Gruening all U. S. gold policies are hopelessly deadlocked as evidenced by the following facts: "The apparently unchangeable policy of the executive branch of the Government of strict maintenance of a $35 an ounce price for gold was reflected in a message to the world by President Kennedy in the famous news conference of July 23, 1962, broadcast via Telsar in which he said: 'We hope that we can bring our balance of payments into balance by the end of next year. We are not going to devalue. There is no possible use in the United States devaluing. Every other currency in a sense is tied to the dollar; if we devalued, all other currencies would devalue and so that those who speculate against the dollar are going to lose, the United States will not devalue its dollar. And the fact of the matter is the United States can balance its balance of payments any day it wants if it wished to withdraw its support of our defense expenditures overseas and our foreign aid.'

"This policy was further expressed in a statement by Treasury Secretary Dillon at the 9th annual monetary conference of the American Bankers Association in May 1962, when he stated the position of the United States in the following terms: 'The free world's monetary system, as it has evolved since World War II, rests inescapably on the full acceptability of the dollar as a supplement to gold in financing world trade. No practicable alternative is in sight. This means that the dollar holdings of the central banks must continue, in the future as in the past, to be readily convertible into gold upon demand at the fixed price of $35 an ounce.'

"The effect of executive determination that there may be no change in the price of gold has, as we know, meant that gold miners can no longer produce gold profitably because the cost of every component of mining operations has risen constantly while the price at which gold can be sold has remained the same. Thus, gold mining is a unique industry — unique in our presumed free enterprise system — in that it is unlawful to sell its product at a profit."

On the specific roles played by the Treasury and the Interior Department, Senator Gruening had this to say: "There is, then, a sorry record of the executive branch of the Government in its dealings with the gold mining industry.

"There are, of course, not only the positive acts of the executive branch that have damaged the gold mining industry, but, of no less importance, the refusal of the Treasury Department and the Interior Department to give essential support to legislation introduced by those of us in Congress who care about the gold miners and want to help, or failing to support the proposed legislation, to come up with any acceptable alternatives to our legislative proposals. Requests for such alternative proposals have been consistently ignored.

"Whether or not the inflexible policy of the Treasury Department against increasing the price of gold, always meekly followed by the Interior Department, is based on sound, economic policy, of which there is no evidence, it has effectively blocked any and all legislative efforts to date to provide assistance to our gold miners.

"The hysterical reaction of the Treasury Department and its practitioners of the mysterious art of international finance to

Bermuda 1964, The Other Side Of The Crown

Christian F. Verbeke
The forthcoming issue of Bermuda's 1964 crown has drawn considerable coin investor's attention recently. With prices of the 1959 Bermuda crown ranging from $13 to $17.50 this is hardly surprising.

The coin referred to as a crown will in reality be of double florin size (4s.), a fraction smaller than the regular British crown. Silver content is .500 fine and .500 alloy. The obverse shows a portrait of Queen Elizabeth II, the reverse features the Bermuda Coat of Arms. The Queen's portrait is to be the young bust version, used till now on all Commonwealth coinage. Since, a mature bust has been adopted for 1964 and subsequent coinage. The Bermuda '64 crown will thus be an exception. Mintage will be limited to 500,000 pieces.

Bermuda coin dealers are heavily advertising the new issue at prices averaging three to four times face value. Indeed the crown (5s.) is roughly the equivalent to U.S. $0.70 and advertised prices range from $2.50 for singles to $2.00 for larger quantities (multiples of one hundred).

Thus far, delivery has been announced for early October. A large influx of U. S. orders has reached Bermuda in recent days. To what extent Bermuda coin dealers can honor their commitments remains to be seen. Their ability to supply coins is based entirely on the assumption that they will acquire them at face value. Should a few people at the source become greedy, this may not quite materialize. The paradox in the situation resides in the outlandish prices advertised in Bermuda, right at the source by members of the Bermuda coin dealers association. Many U.S. dealers are advertising the Bermuda crown at 10 to 30% under the Bermuda price. At the risk of being labeled a trade barrier advocate this writer urges coin investors to buy from U.S. dealers especially at equivalence of price.

The chances for early October delivery are now scant. For indeed a persistent rumor circulates that British officials have decided to ship the crowns to Bermuda by ship, instead of chartered airplane as originally conceived. This fact has not been brought to the attention of U.S. coin investors or collectors, not even by the organs which allegedly represent the hobby with vigor and foresight.

Design features are stressed with considerable insistence in the numismatic press, so are trivia, totally unrelated to delivery or ethics, (courtesy firms of Chartered, International Numismatic Management Consultants), or any other esoteric title, with worldwide correspondence (sic). No reference to the real issues is made, however. How long will U.S. collectors' funds be tied up in Bermuda? Why should dealers who by definition maintain a primary market demand advance payment without immediate delivery?

It is perhaps true that in reality the U.S. customers' funds will be used

Profile Of A U.S. Gold Type-Collection

Prices Are Commensurate With Demand

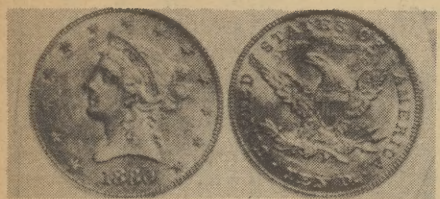

by CHRISTIAN F. VERBEKE

THE market for common U. S. gold coins has displayed firming tendencies as of late. As nothing in the immediate outlook for gold would tend to indicate changes on the international monetary scene, any price-firming tendencies, especially in more common dates, can be directly attributed to stepped-up numismatic demand.

Unlike its silver counterparts, gold series-collecting is a rather uncommon occurrence because of prohibitive initial cost. The practice of type-collecting U. S. gold has thus a firm foothold in numismatics and can rightfully be considered the precursor to all other type-collecting.

Dealer-to-dealer transactions in Unc. double eagles ($20.00 gold piece) are reported to average around $50.00, up $3.00 from earlier this year. In spite of high initial intrinsic value, U. S. gold type-collections can be assembled at reasonable premiums.

A brief review of the history and legislation affecting U.S. gold coins follows: "As provided in the act of April 2, 1792, the eagle, of the value of $10, became the standard denomination of gold coin. Eagles and half eagles ($5) were first coined, followed by quarter eagles ($2.50). The eagle had a weight of 270 grains, 0.916 2/3 fine, and so contained 247.5 grains of pure gold. The act of June 28, 1834, reduced the weight to 258 grains, 0.899225 fine, and so made the pure gold content 232 grains. The act of January 18, 1837, changed the fineness to 0.900, without change in weight, which raised the pure gold content to 232.2 grains. Double-eagles ($20), and $1 pieces were authorized by the act of March 3, 1849, and $3 pieces by the act of February 21, 1853. The $1 and $3 pieces were discontinued by the act of September 26, 1890; quarter eagles were discontinued by the act of April 11, 1930.

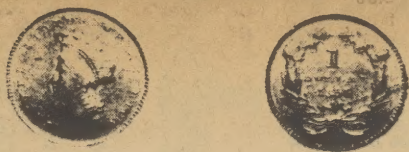

Gold coins of the different denominations were of proportionate weight and the same fineness. All were legal tender in all payments when not below the standard weight and "limit of tolerance" prescribed by law, and when below such weight and tolerance were legal tender in proportion to their actual weight.

Gold bars, bearing the mint stamp as to weight and fineness, were available under certain conditions to the depositors of gold bullion or gold coin, and the gold monetary stock was largely held in the form of bars, which were a more convenient means than coin for reserve purposes and for settlement of international balances. The U. S. Mints discontinued gold coinage after May 19, 1933; and after the passage of the Gold Reserve Act, January 30, 1934, existing stocks of gold coins were acquired by the Treasury and formed into bars.

The total gold coinage of the mints of the United States since 1792 has been $4,526,218,477.50."

A comprehensive U. S. gold type-collection would include: Gold Dollars ($1), 1849-1889.

Small-sized Liberty Head 1849-1854 (Coronet Type)

Smallest U. S. gold coin, struck; because of its small size and Longacre's lack of experience with die sinking, its inception was the subject of considerable strife between Patterson the then director of the mint and its engraver.

Although the bill approving the issuance of a gold dollar was passed on March 31, 1849, the dies were not finished till May 7, 1849. This incident and others related to the striking of the double eagle ($20 gold) clouded irreparably the Longacre-Patterson relationship till the director's death in 1851.

Selection: 1851, 1852, 1853, XF, $35, Unc: $40-42. Feathered Headdress or Large Size Type, 1854-1856

Modified design, giving the gold dollar a larger diameter but reduced thickness to maintain weight standards.

Selection: 1855, XF: $130-135,

UNC: $200

Large Head Type, 1856-1889

Sometimes referred to as large princess head. A very popular series with collectors, especially the proofs issued at the Philadelphia mint continuously from inception till discontinuation.

Selection: 1861 -- XF: $40, Unc: $50

Alternative: 1856, 1857, XF: $45, Unc: $55

Narrowly interwoven with the civil war events is the rare 1861-D (Dahlonga mint) gold dollar struck by the Confederates after seizure of the mint.

Quarter Eagles ($2.50 gold pieces), 1796-1929; Liberty Cap Type, 1796-1807

Far rarer than mintage figures would indicate. Because of a price increase in gold bullion, this series was heavily affected by melting down and recoinage in the mid-1830's. The Heraldic Eagle on the reverse was adopted since inception but some collectors differentiate 1796 no stars, and 1796 with stars, as distinct types. No valuation inscribed on coins.

Selection: 1807 VF: $625, Unc: $1,300. Alternative: 1804, 1805 VF: $675, Unc: $1,400 Bust Type Facing Left or Turban Head Type (round cap), 1808-1834

The large head issue of 1808 is sometimes considered a distinct type but generally included in the entire series. Introduction of valuation on reverse of coins ("2 1/2 D"). Size reduced in 1821.

Selection: 1829 through 1833 VF: $350, Unc: $750 Ribbon, Liberty Cap Removed Type, 1834-1839

First occurrence of substantial mintages in this denomination, 10,000 up to 500,000 pieces.

Selection: 1835 through 1838 VF: $57, Unc: $90 Coronet or New Small Head Type, 1840-1907

Prolific series marked by the issuance of proofs from 1855 through discontinuation in 1907. Later proof issues from 1900 till 1907 are well within reach at prices ranging from $250 to $300.

Selection: Multiple choice includes 1853, 1855, 1858, etc. all in VF: $40, Unc: $55. Indian Head Type, 1908-1929

Drastic departure of established mint practices. Bela Lyon Pratt introduced a design void of raised milling edge and featuring incuse devices and legends. Matte proofs issued.

Selection: 1908 through 1911, and 1915 through 1929, all in VF: $25, Unc: $32.50.

Three-Dollar Gold Pieces,

1854-1889

The design is similar to the type II gold dollar issued in 1854. The coin owes its longevity rather to official apathy than to real necessity. Its issuance was advocated to facilitate the purchase of the three-cent postal stamps first issued in July 1851, hence the creation of a three-cent silver coin for the same purpose. Public acceptance of the three dollar gold piece was limited.

Selection: 1854 plain through 1857 plain VF: $180, Unc: $220.

Four-Dollars Gold or "Stella", 1879-1880

Barber and Morgan design, patterns only; therefore not to be included in U. S. gold types except for pattern collectors of U. S. types.

Half Eagles ($5 Gold Pieces), 1795-1929; Liberty Cap Type, 1795-1807

Varieties abound in earlier years, the most frequently encountered are stars, or no stars, over-dates, small or large eagle, and small or large numerals.

Selection: 1799 through 1807 VF: $325, XF: $450, Unc: $625.

Turban Head (Round Cap), 1807-1834

Value $5 first used by mark "5D". From 1813 till 1834 a larger head was used, sometimes considered a different and distinct type.

Selection: 1807 through 1812 VF: $325, XF: $450, Unc: $650.

Ribbon Type (Motto Removed on Reverse), 1834-1839

Coin size reduced.

Selection: 1834 through 1838 VF: $70, Unc: $115.

Coronet Type, 1839-1908

Smaller head with coronet. Motto restored in 1866.

Selection: 1881-S, 1882-P, etc. through 1887-S (except CC mint marks which command higher prices) VF: $25-27, Unc: $30-33. Indian Head, 1908-1929

Same as incuse quarter eagle design and lettering by Bela Lyon Pratt. Matte proofs issued.

Selection: 1908 plain through 1915 plain VF: $27, Unc: $35.

New Orleans, San Francisco, Denver, command higher premiums. High priced issue is 1929 plain.

Bermuda

to pay for the original issue? The scheme has a strange flavor of what is referred to in foreign trade as back-to-back trading; e.g., the practice of first selling merchandise against cash payment and then scrape the bottom of the barrel to locate the actual merchandise. At least in foreign trade, "back-to-backers" usually limit themselves to a 5 to 7.5% brokerage commission. In keeping with this tradition, a price of U.S. $0.90 f.o.b. Bermuda would be perhaps more in line for the forthcoming crown.

The situation is not limited to the Bermuda '64 crown; the '64 Sierra Leone proof set which peaked out at $40.00 retail just before the news of an additional 4,000 set mintage, is an outstanding example of perpetrations on the gullible coin buying public by so called "consultants" with international connections.

Why is the new Danish 5-kroner piece (Anne-Marie of Denmark, Constantin of Greece marriage commemorative crown) being advertised by Europe-based dealers at prices ranging from $3.80 to $4.00, when the original issuance price is $1.50 plus postage presently offered in Copenhagen for export? The list goes on ad nauseam. Are these legitimate brokerage functions? Normal dealer markups? Numismatic consulting or advising?

As long as numismatic ads are tolerated, which entice the public by exhortations of "We have an exclusive arrangement with the Macao mint" or "We cornered the market on 1964 Lundy proof sets", or better "We are the exclusive distributors for Tarim and Ghurfah proof crowns", there is no relief in sight for the average collector of foreign material.

As a partial cure, your editor offers the following recommendation: BUY THROUGH REPUTABLE TERRITORIAL U. S. DEALERS OR BROKERS. They abound and are anxious to serve you well. They could help avoid the many pitfalls in storage when buying from questionable foreign sources. C.F.V.

GAMMA GUIDE '65

The Gamma Method (Graphical Analysis of Mintage Market and Age) was developed after intensive research, using known factors only. It does not prophesy or predict. YOU and YOU ALONE will become the critical expert, analysing your holdings and currently advertised dealer offering to evaluate and discover:

- Rolls, genuinely asleep, far behind the market! (There are dozens, ready to jump in value).
- Rolls, overpriced or ahead of the market!
- Rolls, performing as you will expect them to!

The GAMMA GUIDE '65 will enable you to also forecast future potential, based on FACT ALONE, not WISHFUL FANTASY. Find out if that so-called Sleeper is really a good buy, or if it is actually overpriced. You will know!

To get your copy now, on this no risk, 10 day money back offer, send your printed name and address along with only $3.00 (personal checks O.K.) To:

CANADIAN PROOF-LIKE SETS

With limitation of 1965 proof-like sets to five sets per person, and the Mint's raising of price to $4.00, the 1965 proof-like sets should be $10.00 when sold on the market. This presents interesting capital gain possibilities for 1963 and 1964 proof like sets.

Indian Head Type, 1907-1933

Famous St. Gaudens design, outstanding example of art in U. S. coinage. The beauty of the coin alone should have been an overriding factor to be weighted against the political humbug and skull duggery which urged the establishment of the motto "In God We Trust" left off at the insistence of President Theodore Roosevelt in 1907. An act of Congress in 1908 restored the motto.

Selection: 1910 through 1915 plain, VF: $45, Unc: $62.50.

Double Eagles ($20 Gold Pieces), 1849-1933

any proposal to aid gold-mining was typically demonstrated in the course of consideration, during the 87th Congress, of the bill, Senate Joint Resolution 44, introduced by the late Senator Clair Engle of California, who was always in the fore front of legislative efforts on behalf of the gold miners.

vitalize gold, is, of course, exceedingly discouraging. But even more disheartening is the fact that no Secretary of Interior and no other officer of the administration of any President, Republican or Democrat, has been willing to make a suggestion or proposal as to measures or actions that would help. Along with opposition to the efforts in Congress, there has been total lack of concern and complete failure to assume responsibility for the welfare of the gold mining industry.

"I think this is a shocking and deplorable attitude, and I shall continue to so state at every opportunity that arises until some favorable action occurs. In all our free enterprise system, this is only the one example where by executive fiat an industry is compelled to sell at a price that forbids a profit to the producer, and compelled to sell to the customer — the Federal Government—that imposes the strangulation. If it were done by a Stalin, a Hitler, or a Mussolini, we could at least say that's what dictatorship does, and point to it as a horrible example which our free society should eschew and repudiate.

"As a realist, I know our continuing search for a solution to the problems of the gold mining industry will be fraught with obstacles and difficulties. "However, it has been my observation that there are no more optimistic adventurers in all our citizenry than the gold miners.

" 'Hope supports prospectors and miners—who are always rich—in prospect, if in no other way,' wrote James Wickersham, miner, prospector, Federal judge, an Alaska territorial delegate to Congress for many years, Alaska's outstanding figure in the first third of this century.

"Gold miners always believe there will be another lucky strike and that their prospecting will result in success.

"They never give up. Neither will I"

Finds Of Sunken Gold, Heighten Florida Treasure Hunt

The Wall Street Journal reports that last week in the banquet room of a Hoboken, N.J., restaurant, auctioneer Henry Christensen staged the first major public sale of 17th and 18th century Spanish gold coins recently harvested from Florida coastal waters. Among the 119 pieces auctioned: A nearly perfect 1695 Charles II doubloon that brought $3,500.

The coin was purchased by Xavier Calico, president of the International Association of Professional Numismatics, who had flown from his home town of Barcelona, Spain, just for the auction. In all, Calico purchased 17 coins for $17,310, making him the most active bidder of the day.

But Calico, mustachioed, robust and wearing a vest and a double-breasted suit, lost out in his bid for the coin he perhaps wanted most. The piece, a Philip V doubloon, went to John J. Pascale, a wealthy Hoboken industrialist, for $3,400. Its value had been estimated at $3,000.

"I would liked to have had that coin," Calico said later.

Pascale, an announced candidate for Hoboken mayor in the 1965 election, also bought three other coins and ran up a bill of $5,035.

Results of the Hoboken bidding are likely to elevate even more the treasure hunting fever currently sweeping Florida. The coin auction represents a fraction of the treasure recovered by one group from the sandy ocean bottom off Fort Pierce, Fla., since last spring. Their find includes about 3,650 gold coins along with other precious articles possibly worth as much as $2 million.

The site of the Fort Pierce find is believed to mark the watery grave of the Dutch ship Hollandsa, one of 10 vessels in a Spanish treasure convoy that foundered during a 1715 hurricane. Its discovery by an incorporated group of scuba divers, Treasure Salvors, Inc., has touched off a rush by rival treasure hunters anxious to stake out claims along Florida's nearly 8,500 miles of shoreline.

Since July the State of Florida, which retains control of underwater land out to the three-mile limit on the Atlantic and out to nine miles on the Gulf of Mexico, has granted treasure hunting leases to seven individuals and syndicates. William R. Kidd, director of the department of trustees of the state's Internal Improvement Fund, which administers such leases, says 15 other applications are under consideration and dozens of mail and telephone inquiries are coming in weekly.

Smithsonian Seeks To Buy Coins

The treasure hunt has evoked keen interest among historians and coin collectors. "We may never experience a thing like this again," V. Clain-Stefanelli, curator of numismatics for the Smithsonian Institution, says of the Fort Pierce treasure. The Smithsonian presently is sounding out private donors who might be willing to contribute about $1 million to acquire over 2,000 of the gold pieces found there. "Many of the coins never have been seen in our lifetime," says the curator.

Mr. Christensen, the Hoboken auctioneer, was selected as agent for the Treasure Salvors group because he's a professional coin dealer and expert on Spanish gold coins. He has received several hundred mailed bids from as far away as Italy and Holland. Collectors may find the coins especially valuable, he says, because many are in nearly mint-new condition, unlike many ancient gold coins that were circulated and whose edges were illegally shaved.

Treasure discoveries will yield some windfall revenues for Florida. Treasure hunters must hand over to the state 25% of anything they find. State officials are debating whether to exhibit or sell nearly 1,000 gold coins turned over to them by the Treasure Salvors group. To guard against illegal hunting or cheating, Florida recently hired a scuba-diving archeologist to look over salvagers' shoulders and also has assigned highway department planes and helicopters to spot suspicious divers who may lack state permits.

Uncle Sam's exact stake

in Florida's treasure boom is less clear. Treasury officials say the department's present "treasure trove" regulation leaves unsettled whether discoveries can qualify for generally lower capital gains tax treatment and whether a corporate expedition such as Treasure Salvors can deduct its expenses in finding treasure.

Hunting treasure in Florida's shallow coastal waters can be a relatively inexpensive matter, merely requiring scuba-diving gear. But some are investing heavily in elaborate equipment to probe sand, mud and coral. Mel Fisher, president of Treasure Salvors, says his group has spent $250,000 to date for equipment, including four magnetometers which locate large iron objects by magnetic attraction and two "differentiators," electronic devices employed at close range which distinguish non-ferrous metals, like gold and silver, from ferrous metals.

Whether similar expenditures by other newcomers will pay off in good fortune matching the Hollandsa discovery remains to be seen. But there's little question about the important role luck and patience play in seeking buried treasure. The Hollandsa find really began 18 years ago when Kip Wagner, a construction engineer and part-time beachcomber, first found Spanish gold coins in a shallow cove below his home at Sebastian, some 25 miles north of Fort Pierce. An old map which turned up later indicated the coins probably came from one of the 10 lost treasure ships wrecked in the 1715 hurricane.

In 1960 Mr. Wagner and nine other amateurs formed Real 8, a treasure-hunting syndicate which unsuccessfully probed offshore, using suction dredges and high pressure water jets. Last year the nine-man Treasure Salvors team joined the search on Real 8 leases, agreeing to split any treasure 50-50. Dredging close to several buried cannons after nearly a year of frustration, Treasure Salvors finally exposed two gold discs weighing 13 pounds in all, buried under two feet of sand. The group staked off a nine-acre tract around the find with chain and proceeded to sift the site foot-by-foot until nearly 4,000 gold and thousands of silver coins, as well as rings and necklaces, had been recovered.

LONDON — An exhibition of coins, tokens and war medals is on display at the Manchester Museum until Oct. 31, to commemorate the centenary of the city's Numismatic Society, the Times of London reports.

The exhibits are the joint efforts of members of the Lancashire society and the museum.

There is much to interest specialists, but the organizers hope the main appeal will be to the nonspecialized collector. Maps, pictures and descriptive matter give a general guide to old and modern issues.

Particular attention has been paid to the tokens used for domestic purchases in the seventeenth, eighteenth, and early nineteenth centuries, and the war medals add a touch of color.

Bonn, Germany — In time for this year's Columbus Day (October 12) a German numismatologist has published his rediscovery of what the discoverer of America really looked like. Dr. Richard Gaettens says in a scholarly paper in the specialist journal The Connoisseur, published in London, that Christopher Columbus:

—looked like what he was: "an energetic sailor" with "all his struggles and disappointments" engraved on his countenance;

—did not sit for the alleged "Columbus portraits" that school-children and museum visitors know —these versions show the great seafarer misleadingly as "a scholar", "a rich merchant" or "a monk", —was portrayed from life by Guido Mazzoni and can be seen in the 16th century medal shown.

Dr. Gaettens, the rediscoverer, was born in the little North German town of Hagenow on March 14, 1886. He grew up planning to be a chemist. Later he became so fascinated by old coins that he changed his profession. He opened a business in Halle, where he dealt in coins and medals. Over the years he has published a long list of essays and books within the field of his hobby and career.

In 1934, he bought a little bronze medal from an old Dutch collection. The name Christophore Colombo was inscribed on it in Italian characters. He recognized the medal as one described by the 19th-century specialists Gaetano Avignone and Umberto Rossi. Study convinced him that the medal was of earlier origin than his predecessors had thought.

Further investigation and a painstaking process of scholarly deduction (described in his documented report for The Connoisseur led him to the conclusion that the creator of the Columbus portrait was Guido Mazzoni, a member of the so-called Paduan Naturalists (1480-1510). Mazzoni was a contemporary of Columbus, dying in 1518.

Why is the Mazzoni likeness of Columbus truer than other Columbus portraits?

"When we consider some of the famous posthumous portraits of Columbus," Dr. Gaettens explains, "we find that the one by Sebastiano del Piombo in the Metropolitan Museum in New York shows a rich merchant; the one in the Palazzo Comunale in Genoa shows a scholar; and the picture in the Galleria Gioviana in Como, which Pedrosa said was painted from life, represents a monk. But we cannot imagine any one of them sailing a ship across the ocean. They will give us the feeling of having led a safe and protected life.

ations of Columbus makes us think of a sailor, except Mazzoni's model. We can very well imagine this man on the bridge of the Santa Maria.

"A man's profession shapes his face and when he becomes older, characteristic lines are engraved on it. You can see whether a man works out of doors, as a farmer, forester or sailor, or whether he spends all his life indoors as a scholar or merchant.

"This face of Columbus reflects storms and wild weather, great energy, perseverance and strength. It can only have been made from life, and it is the image of the famous discoverer of America, for which countless scholars have been searching for about 400 years."

Pittsburg — Since the formation of World Proof Collectors Association in July of this year both the U.S. and Foreign memberships have been steadily increasing. Now being offered for the first time besides Regular memberships will be, Junior membership, Associate membership, Honorary membership and membership for other organizations. One can become an Honorary member only if proposed by an officer and approved by all officers of WPCA. The official publication "Proof Collectors Corner" will be coming off the presses in October. Some of the features will be general membership information, editorials, a form for ordering proof and mint sets from the various Mints throughout the world, an investment section for the person who collects for investment purposes only, plus many other features. Additional information and a complimentary copy of the publication may be obtained by writing the Secretary-Treasurer at World Proof Collectors Corner, 1429 Hawthorne St., Pittsburg, Penna. 15201 U.S.A.

New York — The Sunday Times joined the many others who lament the multiplicity of "uncs" in presently used coin grading systems. The article goes on to say that in the old days, oldtimers agree, a coin was either circulated or uncirculated. The difference was obvious, clear cut and definite enough for dealers and collectors alike. But the modern dealer apparently has a much sharper eye. He has come up with all kinds of fine distinctions.

In the past few years several "new top grades" have been developed, including such now-familiar ones as AU (almost or about uncirculated), BU (bright or brilliant uncirculated), GU (gem uncirculated) and perhaps others not so well publicized. Now the ultimate has arrived. It is LU, which stands for "looks uncirculated."

Grading has always been a major cause of conflict and misunderstanding between buyer and seller, even in the days when

Washington — The United States has completed loan arrangements for the borrowing of $100 million from the International Monetary Fund. The loan was made so that Canada and other nations could repay their debts to the IMF without tapping U.S. gold stocks.

$50 million West German marks and $50 million Dutch guilders were borrowed and then partially sold to Canada for U. S. dollars.

In an article by the Wall Street Journal it was pointed out that unless other nations unexpectedly decide to make large repayments to the IMF, the remainder of the newly drawn currencies should be enough to cover minor debts due to be repaid by various countries to the IMF, without any further U. S. drawings between now and year end, a Treasury official said.

The $100 million drawing is the second since a one-year standby agreement permitting drawing up to $500 million was announced July 23; the first drawing was for $50 million. Drawings under an earlier standby agreement totaled $250 million; the total currently outstanding is $400 million.

These IMF drawings come about because the fund's holdings of U. S. dollars are already so large that its rules forbid its accepting any more of them as debt repayment by other nations. This leaves nations wishing to repay drawings with the choice of repaying in some other country's that is acceptable to the fund — or in gold. Lest the repaying nation use its surplus U. S. dollars to buy gold from the Treasury, the U. S. offers to draw acceptable foreign currencies from the IMF and sell them to the repaying nation in exchange for its surplus U. S. dollars. If all goes well, a drawing costs the U. S. only a one-time service charge of 0.5%.

GENERAL NUMISMATICS PROPOSES OFFERING. General Numismatics Corporation, 2115 Land Title Bldg., Philadelphia, filed a registration statement (File 2-22829) with the SEC on October 2 seeking registration of 400,000 shares of common stock. Of this stock, 100,000 shares are to be offered at $6.075 per share (with a minimum purchase of 10 shares) to established coin collectors. The remaining 300,000 shares are to be offered for public sale at $6.75 per share. The offering is to be made through company officials and employees. No underwriting is involved.

Organized under Pennsylvania law in July 1964, the company is engaged in a variety of activities related to the numismatic field, including the production of coinage of various types, the wholesale distribution of foreign coins to coin dealers and the production and distribution of new types of coin holders, coin albums and other numismatic supplies. The company expects to use the net proceeds from its stock sale to meet organizational expenses and, as needed, to supply funds for its first year of operation. It is estimated that a pilot plant for the design and production of proof-quality coins and additional equipment will cost $200,000. The company has outstanding 155,000 shares of common stock, of which management officials as a group own 70.3%. All of its outstanding stock was purchased for an aggregate of $30,000. Joseph M. Segel is president.

We sincerely believe these sets and proof-like dollars offer one of the soundest investment buys in today's market. I do not advocate liquidating your purchases prior to May 1965 for fullest short term appreciation.

The mintages are tremendously low. Interest in Canadian has been in new solid ground of widening interest since last December. Oldtime investors know of what I say. If you are a new investor, switch your weaker holdings into these for substantial leverage on your money. Then hold fast. Your position is solid.

Space City Averages:

How They Are Obtained

With close to 1,500 separate statistics appearing each week in PACE, a need exists to express this information in graphic form for busy readers.

We are currently charting eight different coin series each week as you see below. These charts are based on Space City Averages, an arbitrarily chosen group of rolls which we feel are representative of the total for that series.

To be included in the Space City Averages rolls are chosen on the basis of three factors: (1) their trading is constant, (2) they are widely held, and (3) they are indicative of the series.

It is obvious infrequently traded items, closely held items, and extremes in the series would not serve this purpose.

Each week the statistical staff of PACE prepares these averages from the information obtained on The American Numismatics Exchange transactions.

The amount expressed in the Space City averages is the total market bid prices for the rolls included in the averages. This is a dollar figure and is compared with previous week, month, and year figures for analysis.

The high and low for 1964 is also shown.

MARKET SUMMARY

OCTOBER 14, 1964

By Russell Brown

THE past week was possibly the worst that the market has endured the entirety of 1964. Only nine issues advanced while 123 declined. The only signs of life noted were in Franklin half dollars where a few bids interrupted the solid wave of sell offers. But even in that series the gains were held to the $1-5 range while losses by several issues doubled this in amount.

The 1948-P Franklin saw an advance of $5 but while it was being requested, seven other issues such as the 1952-S, 1951-P and the 1949-S declined five dollars and ten dollars apiece. A good idea as to the strength of the market may be obtained by noting that the only series with any bidding showed distinct downward tendencies.

The early issues of the Lincoln cent series were hit with losses, some of them quite major. The 1934-D, for example, lost $50. While 26 issues were in decline, only the 1954-P could muster an advance. Both small date issues continue downward with little interest being shown for either.

Jefferson nickels could not even show up as well as the cents for no one issue managed an advance. Four dates, the 1952-D, 1938-P, 1950-D and the 1943-D lost ten dollars or more per roll. For the first time in some months, the 1950-D was offered below the $900 level.

Roosevelt dimes paralleled the nickels but their losses were not quite as large. And as in the cents and nickels, no one date or group of dates seems overly unpopular. It was noted that the 1955-P and the 1955-D rolls both appeared to be weakening in the face of repeatedly lowered offers to sell.

Several rolls of Washington quarters managed an advance but declines were in the majority six to one. The 1944-D, having been run from $80 per roll to $160 seems intent on returning to its starting point. Most of the larger losses ($5 or more) seemed to be found in the issues of the middle '40's.

Morgan dollars continued a more or less across the board decline. Only gem specimens of the highest priced issues seem to be immune to the current Morgan disinterest. Five issues suffered losses of ten dollars or more and there were no advances to match the twenty declines. Hardest hit in the series seem to be rolls selling in the neighborhood of $200 to $400.

Peace dollars followed in the Morgan footsteps with five declines of at least $20. These declines still have not lowered the series to its August level. Here again there were no advances against the seven declines.

Even proof sets, which up till now have shown strength to resist major declines lost heavily this week. While the early sets remained aloof from the selloff, the 1950, 1951 and 1952 sets lost $15, $10 and $5 as many of the sets which had not been offered previously made their appearance. The 1964 set continued to jump up and down in price with some dealers offering more for the sets than others dealers were asking. On one occasion two messages actually appeared adjacent to one another with a higher bid than ask. We still feel that a realistic price for the set is $14.50 at this time.

More and more Canadian issues are requested on tape and the prices on a large number of these items are on the rise. This is true not only of the set and dollar prices but also of the uncirculated rolls. Current favorites seem to be nickels and cents but quarters and half dollars also make an appearance now and then.

The Market Opinion

The coin market continues to exhibit downside tendencies and an increasingly large decline to advance ratio. While no one is predicting a market crash, it is an exceedingly unwise investor who has not scrutinized his portfolio and evaluated it with a view toward its disposal if the need arises.

As you well know, the coin market, while similar to the stock market in many ways, has two major dissimilarities. First, since the market is not equipped to handle short sales (and even if it were, only the very brave would attempt them) profits may only be made on the upswing and the investor must get out at the peak or be prepared to hold onto his portfolio until the next rise carries the price higher than his cost. The second difference is connected with the first: on the downside, it is virtually impossible to sell a sizeable coin holding at anything like realistic prices. Let there be a hint of a general market decline and just watch the published buy ads disappear.

Strangely enough, this last has a buoyant effect on the market. Since only ridiculously low prices are offered for merchandise, the investors prefer to hold on to their portfolios rather than sell at cost or take a loss. As a result, the available supply loosened by news of the decline soon dries up and prices once more begin to rise.

These bid and asked prices, from the American Numismatic Exchange Inc., do not necessarily represent actual transactions. They are a guide to the range within which these coins could have been sold (indicated by the "bid") or bought (indicated by the "asked") at the time of compilation. Price changes are obtained by comparison of weekly bid prices.

Prices are wholesale quotations compiled from the American Numismatic Exchange teletype system which serves 195 coin dealers across the country.

Dealer

scribed by the applicant showing a minimum liquid net worth of $25,000.00 shall be submitted with the application. A corporation may become a member only when a responsible officer of the corporation in his individual capacity becomes a member and signs an agreement that he will be personally responsible for everything he or the corporation purchases. Every applicant must be proposed by at least two members in good standing. The board of directors shall appraise the applicant and his financial statement and he shall be admitted to membership unless two or more directors vote against his admission.

Upon being admitted to membership applicant shall sign an agreement stating that he will offer all disputes between dealer members and himself to the board of arbitration of his district.

The main purpose of NACD, Inc., was set forth to promote good and fair business relationship between dealer members and between dealer members and retail customers. By adhering to the rules, regulations, and policies set forth by the organization.

It was decided to set up three 3-man arbitration committees appointed by the board of directors to serve for a period of 90 days. The committees will be geographical in nature, one in the east, one in the west and one in the mid-west.

Of course, we can't go into all the fine points and suggestions that were brought up in this meeting, but from the looks of the auspicious beginning of the organization, we can practically guarantee at this time that no dealer, collector or investor should ever have the slightest doubt about dealing with a member of the new NACD, Inc. A dealer must be reliable both financially and morally before he will be admitted to the organization and he must maintain these standards to remain a member. Any infraction of rules will be immediately acted upon by the board of directors and stringent measures will be taken when found necessary.

COIN LOANS A BELLWETHER

Let Willoughby Show You How To Triple Your Profits!

A few weeks ago we reported that Comp-troller of the Currency Saxon had ordered all banks with national charters to reduce their COIN LOANS from 100 PER CENT FACE VALUE to 70 PER CENT. This caused consternation in some quarters . . . but overall it could well be that investors using their coins as COLLATERAL for loans at 60-80 PER CENT MARKET VALUE are in a far SAFER POSITION . . .

MR. I PREDICT

Apparently after studying today's coin situation, Finance Companies and those Commercial Banks who do not come under Saxon's supervision thought differently and over the country there has been widespread advertising by these lending institutions — offering various and very ATTRACTIVE plans . . . They think coin loans are SAFE and seem to think the FUTURE of COINS as an investment vehicle looks BRIGHT indeed!

We here represent one of the largest in the country — Hobby Finance — and are continually being approached by others . . . wanting us to use their services and their money! Most certainly they along with us have no doubt as to the FUTURE trends of coin investments. . . . Certainly these institutions, with years of EXPERIENCE in finance, are better qualified . . . than either you or I . . . to PASS judgement.

COINS ARE COLLATERAL

They are saying in effect BU ROLLS ARE GOING HIGHER and we think them PRIME INVESTMENTS! Investors realize fully that when they PLEDGE their holdings as COLLATERAL, they have placed them SAFELY out of the reach of the bureaucrats and feel a certain feeling of security and WELL BEING. . . . Coins as a medium of exchange are one thing, but coins used as COLLATERAL with up to as high as 65 to 80 percent are an entirely different matter. If there is a TREND to the future, this can be considered a guidepost as to the STABILITY of coin investments! No doubt this accounts for the large volume of business these firms are now doing.

WISE INVESTORS ARE BUYING COIN ON PAYMENT PLAN

For many years investors have been faced with the "bugaboo" of paying as high as many hundreds of dollars for a roll of scarce BU coins . . . Their ability to buy those items they wanted in quantity has been greatly hindered. Unlike most anything else for sale, they could find NO FINANCING to allow them to PARLAY their investments for future profits. Now that they can borrow from 60 to 80 per cent on their coins, these investors find that they can TRIPLE their buying power and make ONE DOLLAR DO THE WORK OF THREE! True, they pay a little MORE interest. . . . but many coin investors are in HIGH INCOME brackets and realize that the interest, insurance costs etc. are TAX DEDUCTIBLE. . . . this is particularly attractive. We here say that COIN LOANS as such have only started and will be as common as all other TIME PAYMENTS through out the country!

STUDY THIS TYPICAL EXAMPLE, IT MAY APPLY TO YOU!

Let us take a typical example. Recently a Mr. K, an employee of Lockheed Aircraft, came into our office with his wife. He had a list of his portfolio of BU Rolls that he had gathered, roll by roll, over the years. . . . Having to wait until he had sufficient savings each time before making a commitment. Now Mr. K and his wife BOTH work and have a very nice monthly income. He said that he would like to use some of his present roll holdings and spend about $100.00 per month for next three years for coins. . . . but he would like to own them at TODAY'S MARKET PRICES plus our commission (5%).

We looked over his roll portfolio and told him that it would NOT be necessary to use his ENTIRE holdings as collateral but only a small part. We told him to use current MARKET prices and select $1,300.00 worth of rolls and we would secure an additional portfolio of $2,500.00 for his account IMMEDIATELY! Mr. K. showed up the next day with selection of rolls and we proceeded during the next few days to buy him $2,500.00 worth of additional coins.

After we had SECURED his additional rolls, we executed a LOAN AGREEMENT for Mr. K. with Hobby Finance Company of Cincinnati. We shipped both the NEW ACQUISITION and Mr. K.'s rolls he used as DOWN payment to Hobby Finance. He was charged only 5 per cent for our buying and the express charges to Hobby. In less than a week, Mr. K. received his confirmation from Hobby Finance and we received our check in the amount of $2,500.00. So Mr. K. now owns an additional $2,500.00 of choice rolls with THREE FULL YEARS to pay.

Here's how it worked:

|----------------------------------|------------|
| Portfolio | $3,800.00 |
| Down Payment (coins) | 1,300.00 |
| Balance To Be Financed | 2,500.00 |
| Carry charge for | |
| 36 Months | 986.60 |
| Life, Health, Accident Insurance | |
| Time Balance Due | 3,486.60 |
| 36 Monthly Payments | 96.85 |

Now just what happened? Mr. K. now has an additional $2,500.00 in BU Rolls working for him over a THREE YEAR TERM. He has (being under 60 years of age) Life Insurance that pays the LOAN IN FULL in case of his demise. He has Accident and Disability Insurance that pays his payments anytime he is disabled for FOURTEEN days. Should he DIE NOW, he would have increased his ESTATE by $2,500.00. With current coin situation and MARKET outlook, Mr. K. could very well have a PROFIT at end of THREE YEARS that would stagger the imagination!

OTHER TYPE LOANS AVAILABLE

Mr. K. could also have secured a LOAN WITH INTEREST ONLY. In other words, he could have gotten the additional portfolio and paid ONLY the interest until such time as the entire loan became DUE. Then he could have paid it off in FULL or have it RENEWED. . . . This is particularly attractive to those who have the RESOURCES. . . . so that they will experience no HARDSHIP in paying off the loan. . . . But Mr. K. preferred to pay as he went out of the combined earnings of himself and his wife while they are still at the MAXIMUM earning capacity.

MONTHLY PAYMENTS WIDELY USED

In obtaining an ADDITIONAL portfolio on MONTHLY PAYMENTS, Mr. K. followed a generally accepted practice of buying on TIME. Most automobiles, homes, appliances and other necessities of life are bought on MONTHLY PAYMENTS. Now you can purchase BU ROLLS and PROOF SETS on the same basis — yet there is a VAST difference. . . . other items DECREASE in value with age. . . . while coins in the past have INCREASED tremendously. Pick out any three year period you can think of and figure it out for yourself — your gains would have been FANTASTIC. . . . and all of them LONG TERM for tax purposes!

MARGINS AND LEVERAGE

Everyone understands MARGIN accounts in the stock market. . . . and it is so widely used that it is continually CHANGED from time to time by government authorities. Why do people use margins in stock market. . . . just one REASON, that is to gain LEVERAGE. . . . In other words, 50 per cent margin means making dollars work DOUBLE in the market. . . . One third down in the coin market, makes one dollar do the WORK OF THREE. . . . This means TRIPLE PROFIT in a rising market. . . . and I personally think we are looking no way BUT UP when considering the FUTURE of today's coin market!

MORE OPPORTUNITIES AVAILABLE

One of the pathetic things about coin investment in the past has been that this has been a CASH MARKET. This has placed the coin investor in the position of having IDLE MONEY. This same money could have been in savings, stocks, bonds or securities and would have been drawing dividends. . . . The coin investor has been in the position of having to invest and WAIT for APPRECIATION only. He bought a roll of 1950-D nickels at $900.00. . . . he previously had to wait until it appreciated sufficiently to pay him his anticipated returns, thereby LOSING many opportunities to possibly make large PROFITS in another selection of his choice. Now he could buy that roll with $300.00 down and use the $600.00 balance for some other roll. Or he can BUY THREE rolls instead of one!

This is a situation that coin investors have been yearning for! With national teletape sales now estimated at OVER $1 million per day, it was not UNEXPECTED that eventually financial interests would LOOK OVER this profitable field for investing their monies. Certainly if these tycoons of FINANCE think coins a good investment, it gives the investor a hitherto unknown assurance. Investors today no longer STAND ALONE! Their accounts are being WELCOMED by those with money to lend.

LOANS AFFORD FLEXIBILITY

Today's coin market is a "fluctuating" market. . . . Rolls go up and rolls go down. . . . Just because a roll goes DOWN it does not mean an investor wants to sell 'it'. However sometimes conditions are such that sales are NECESSARY. . . . He may LIKE a roll for the long term but want another roll that he likes for the short term. Now he can BORROW on his lagging rolls and hold them for the long term gain. . . . Use the money to buy other rolls that he may like. . . . for the shorter term.

IMPACT ON MARKET

Time payment plans will have an additional IMPACT on today's market. Previously it has been necessary for investor to dump rolls on the market when they are DORMANT if they need to make a change or to have the money for other uses. . . . This dumping by a number of investors simultaneously caused BLUE CHIP rolls to lag far behind the market. . . . We here believe that this practice will NOT PREVAIL as a general rule in the future. Rather than dump on the market at DEPRESSED prices, investors will pledge these rolls as security.

At this point it might be very well to remember one IMPORTANT POINT. All FINANCE portfolios are LONG TERM and these holdings which are in the millions of dollars, are OFF THE MARKET in such cases as Mr. K.'s and are no longer a part of the FLOATING SUPPLY. This will have a tremendous IMPACT upon the market in general and will greatly STABILIZE prices.

PAY OFF LOANS ANY TIME

Another very attractive feature of Monthly Payment Loans is that they can be PAID OFF at anytime WITHOUT penalty and charged interest ONLY FOR TIME the money has been used. Also the rolls can be sold and the LOAN PAID off that way. The extreme FLEXIBILITY that is being allowed in these loans makes them very attractive indeed. . . . Every State has laws requiring Finance Companies to be Bonded to and Licensed to that State. While we are among the first to institute this service, we PREDICT that all of the larger dealers in the country will very shortly INSTALL a loan department. . . . and the day is not too distant when a MAJORITY of coin sales will be made through FINANCED plans rather than cash.
